I was present for the 10 October 2004 show at the Warner Theatre, Washington, DC. My seat was in the middle balcony. It had been a long day by the time the concert began as I started the day in New York after attending a college reunion, but I wasn't going to miss BWPS live—I drove home to Maryland, then to D.C. with my wife in time for the curtain raising.

I'm an emotional person with music, and I cried several times while hearing songs like Surf's Up, Wonderful, and even Vege-Tables performed by Brian and the band. I grew up with the bootlegs and what-ifs—to hear it live and a 'complete thing' was a gift.

Looking back at it twenty years later, the most amazing thing about this show is the total set. BWPS is the rare gift, but the first set might be the most complete overview of Brian as a performer that I saw him do live. I'll leave that as a question for fan discussion!
